

Preparing the students who could be strong to take a stand and do not have the tendency of passing the bucks on to others has been one of the core ethos of our school. They need to not miss on the opportunities that lay bare and take every stride as a challenge on their potential. It is all this that we all strive to inculcate in them.

We also direct our efforts to the key areas that are essential for shaping a balanced and all-rounded personality. The school feels proud that it continues to develop in them the ability to become instruments of change with a strong scholastic base.
